

Fragmented Experiences

1 Saved Items
“Collections,” “Saved Searches,” and “Saved Buildings” can be created by either a client or an agent. The available collaborative features and visibility depend on who creates the space.

2 Device misalignment
One of the biggest friction points is the transition from a native iOS or Android experience to desktop, due to inconsistent navigation, labeling, and organization of information.

3 Content
There is significant inconsistency in how we communicate with clients and agents across different devices and products.

