

Design Session

The buy-side team came together in a design session to agree upon a general road map for what is in scope and what is not.

The figjam white board is a live document where, if necessary, post-its can move depending on the situation.

